

Tommy Hilfiger mascot sends special greetings to Aruban friends

Bocker the labradoodle - Tommy Hilfiger's mascot, that is featured all over the world in the prestigious stores - owners Marie and Steve recently returned home from their annual visit to Aruba.

The couple are loyal friends of our island, who first came here in 1978. They skipped a few years and since 1996 have been coming here every year. Steve says he hopes they will be able to keep on returning for many, many more years. They might even retire here.

Bocker, who was very glad to see his Mommy and Daddy, sent the following letter to his friends at the Tommy Hilfiger store here:

Hello to Niki and also to Gladys, Federico, Carmen, Baby Joe, Elizabeth, Doris, Yamilena, Maritza, Neysa and Horma....

Mommy and Daddy told me what a great time they had in Aruba, but I am sure glad they are back home. I missed them. They also told me about meeting all of you and that my pictures are in your store....how exciting!!! I know mommy is trying to get caught up but she promised me that she is going to add an Aruba page to my website with all your pictures!! I am also going to write a letter to send to the newspaper there about how excited I am to have my pictures in your store and to make so many new friends. I am one lucky dog.

We will write soon....again thanks to everyone for treating my mommy and daddy SO well!!! They really enjoyed it and really appreciate it. Thanks so much for the towel!!!! Great for my dives into the lake where we live. It will be warm here soon!!!

Woofs and licks,
Your pal,
Bocker
and of course
Marie and Steve
